

To the Right Worshipfull
The Heads of the respective Colleges and Halls in the UNIVERSITY of OXFORD.

YOU are desired to signify to your Societies that on Thursday April 23. the day of his Majesties Coronation, there will be a Sermon at S. Maries at ten of the Clock in the Morning; whither the Doctors are desired to come in their Scarlet Gowns, accompanied with their Societies in their Formalities, as it is directed by Statute to be done at the beginning of Terms, and other like solemn occasions.

At one of the clock in the afternoon, they are likewise desired to come in the same manner, to the public Scholes; where will be a Convocation begun first in the house, and adjourned thence to the Theater; that solemn respect may be there paid to his sacred Majesties Inauguration, by the Orator and others appointed to that service in behalf of the University.

The Masters being to sit in the Area of the Theater, as in Convocation; their vacant seats in the circular part, may this day be filled by strangers, Gentlemen-commoners, and Batchelors of Arts: and the rest of the Galleries, except those allotted for Music, and Ladies and Gentlewomen be allowed to Undergraduates, and other persons of promiscuous condition.

The Gentlemen who perform, in this Solemnity, are desired to meet together at one of the clock in the Divinity Schole, that they may be conducted from thence, to the Rostra appointed for them.

Curator in the absence of {the L^d Bishop of Oxford.
Sr Christopher Wren. } Dr Aldrich.
